Freshmen Honored At Y.W.C.A. Banquet

Dancing Enjoyed in Hermes Club Room by members of campus societies.

The most outstanding of the numerous social affairs that have given in honor of the freshmen was the Y.W.C.A. Banquet at the Rose-Mary tea room Friday night. Almost every campus organization was represented.

Following the national Y.W.C.A. song, "Follow the Glacier," the invocation was given by Dr. R. M. Murdock. The principal speaker of the evening was Miss Eunice Roesler, who, after speaking in a lighter vein, urged all the young ladies present to schedule their Y.W.C.A. membership high in the list and that they regard it as an obligation, a privilege and a pleasure. He offered them his assistance in any personal problem that might arise, saying that the interests of every Carolina student are near and dear to him. He further expressed the deep regret of Dean Irene Dillard that she was unable to attend because of illness. Miss Dillard was also scheduled to speak.

A most beautiful number of the program was the Matron's Stomp, which was given by Miss Besale Freeman, violinist, and Miss Cleo Johnson, soloist. The chorus and orchestra, under the direction of the Matron, Miss Gertrude Jackson, who also gave the address of welcome. Miss Horatio Jackson responded for the freshmen, given by Miss Virginia Durant. Miss Rosemary gave a novel touch to "Carolina."

The tables, arranged to form a "Y" which was peculiar to the Hermes club, were decorated with flags, with garlands of flowers, stringed hoes and pipes.

Euphonovynal Held Meeting Wednesday

"That this moment may have a definite meaning as you face it and that you shall not be at this time but in a meaningless piece of stone, if it has been," said Miss Rosalie Turner before the members of the Euphonovynal Society at its regular meeting Wednesday evening.

Miss Turner gave a brief but comprehensive history of both Dr. Mervin in whose honor the moment was named. The moment itself, which was erected in the southern state of South Carolina, is an ornamental stone.

Other members on the program included Miss Estelle Findley and current events by Miss Florida Standard. A large number of "yawns" were received and there is no committee appointed to hear for the president.

Euphonovynal Holds Enjoyment Reception

Miss Willie Jo Hughes, Vice-President, Leads Campaign of Organization

The Euphonovynal literary society entertained with a pleasurable reception Thursday evening in the Euphonovynal hall in honor of the freshmen and the other literary societies.

The debate, "Resolved: That black cats eat more yellow cats than black pavement," was so eloquently and ably argued by Mel- betrine Williams and Miss Rosalie Turner on the affirmative and Raymond Hildebrandt and Miss Mayre Wall on the negative that the judges, Bruce Rob- erts, Miss Rose Miller Betts and William Parrish, were unable to discriminate, and rendered the decision a tie. A waltz and a crepey reading by Miss Jewel Parent was quite in keeping with the Euphonovynal decorations, and with the witch who had her quarters in the corner of the hall. A popular number of the program was the usual and songs furnished by the Riggin brothers.

Through the courtesy of the Hermes club, the guests were given the use of their club room for dancing.

The prize for fishing apples from a tub of water with the teeth was awarded to Raymond Hildebrandt and Miss Mayre Wall. The refreshments were ice cream and chocolate cakes.
